

Arranged Love: an Independent Australian film, in the pursuit of love, self-acceptance and identity

Arranged Love, an English-language film produced in Australia, is coming to your local cinemas on December 12, 2024. Created by Jeevanthi Films', co-founder Sanjane Koneshamoorthy, this romantic comedy offers a fresh and relatable perspective on multicultural Australia. The film explores the evolving romantic relationship between a realist and a dreamer, and the entertainments that follows as their two opposing worlds collide. The cast features a blend of emerging Bangladeshi-Australian talents and Australians from other diverse backgrounds, including Fatema Khan, Atharv Kolhatkar and Aurnab As-Saber. The film also features the voices of acclaimed artists Kamahl and Janaki Easwar, renowned for their musical talents but here chosen to voice a particularly unique character. The screenplay stays true to its focus on character-driven storytelling while embracing the unique creative opportunities offered by a cross-cultural film. The film looks into themes of identity, tradition versus modernity, and the multifaceted nature of love. It portrays the journey of self-acceptance and the importance of finding genuine connections in a world filled with expectations.

We can't wait to see it! See you on date night, at the movies from December 12!
